The annual song festival given by the students of the elementary schools presented in the high school auditorium last night, was by far the greatest in both perfection in action of the participants and in attendance, hundreds being turned away after the big auditorium was filled over beyond capacity. Admission tonight, it was announced, would be by ticket only. Tickets enough to fill the seats and standing room have been given parents of students participating.

Students of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades, participated in the program. This was varied and included many novelty numbers. Many of the little acts brought rounds of applause. The dance of the outstanding number being the French doll and the minuet dance by the third and fourth grades. The girls of the Frances Cameron School, and the tambourine dance by girls of the fifth grade, Second Ward.

Medical numbers interspersed the acts and the actions of the little performers never tired the spectators. These acts were continued for two hours. There were 952 pupils in the affair and about 150 teachers and assistants were required to keep them together in the various rooms between their parents and until the parents were able to locate them after the curtain closed. About 1,000 persons were spectators. These were a number of folk dances, participated in by both boys and girls. These included the dance of the nationalities, Scotch, Irish, Dutch, Indian. A few dances by the fourth grade of the South Side was pretty and a neat little act was the hurdy gurdy by the third grades of the South Side.

The overall boys and the Sunbonnet girls were accorded a round of applause and looked cute in their make-up. The boys wore costumes, especially in the 2nd grade, gave them a quaint appearance.

"This is an opportune time for Connellsville to develop a Chamber of Commerce that will not only quicken its commercial and civic life, but will be influential over a very wide scope and as the first step in this direction a membership campaign will be launched, beginning Wednesday, May 10.

"The Chamber of Commerce will get results for our city. With sufficient cooperation big things can be accomplished and wonderful progress can be made.

FEDERAL REPORTS SHOW WIDESPREAD INDUSTRIAL BOOM

In Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee building contracts amounted to $46,474,000. This was 23 per cent greater than that for the previous month and 10 per cent greater than the total for April, 1921.

Melting Snows in Russia Disclose Deaths From Famine

By Associated Press.

MOSCOW, May 6.—Melting snows and spring floods in some of Russia's famine districts have revealed evidences of countless deaths hidden during the winter. At Altubinsk, in the Kirghiz republic, thousands of bodies were washed from their shallow graves by a flood, and deposited on the steppes as boys were playing. On the steppes are lying many of those who died while endeavoring to reach the points of food distribution.

Generally, according to advices to the American Relief Administration, the areas supplied by the Americans are quickly recovering but in south Russia and the Crimea the famine is now rivaling the worst experienced in the Volga region.

ANNUAL BANQUET HELD

Twenty-five Members at Festal Board
Enjoy Dinner and Then Turn Attention to Matter of Making the Sport
Stronger in the City; New Members.

Twenty-five members of the Connellsville Tennis Association participated in the third annual banquet Friday night at the cafeteria of the Wright-Mattler Company. Seated at a long table decorated with flowers, the players were entertained by the association. Tennis requests, displayed prominently, by adding the necessary touch to the decorations.

An outstanding result of the affair was the voting of a desire to further tennis in Connellsville and the favor with which such suggestions met. An extension committee was named by President O. H. Horwick to consider ways and means for advancing the game among the younger generation of the city and in this manner develop players and interest in the game for years to come.

Attorney W. F. Schenck was a capable master of ceremonies and he called on various members for short talks. These included G. Fred Riemann, John R. Brown, Max C. Foltz, Louis Givetz, Attorney S. R. Goldsmith and William P. Brickman. The toastmaster himself very cleverly told of the origin of the game of tennis, which he said had been "discovered" by Tenneson, from whom it derived its name.

Matters for the betterment of the association were mentioned. The tender tournament, introduced last season, will be revived. Practically everyone present agreed to enter and drawings will take place in the near future for position. Certain rights in the week will be set aside for the playing of the games and it is possible a schedule of the matches will be published in order that friends of the players will know when they are coming to compete.

A number of new members were present and the charter of the association will be held open for a short time longer. Many of the new names on the roll are those of young fellows who expect to develop into first class players.

It is the plan of the association to devise some way in which the younger boys and girls will be given an opportunity to enjoy the benefits of an hour or two on the courts. The extension committee may act in conjunction with a civic committee and work for the establishment of courts at the playgrounds or some other means to be devised. A report will be made at the next meeting of the association. One member said he thought that if tennis flourished here in the manner that it should there would be a larger membership than the present courts could care for and would provide for the erection of other ones.

MIDDLE WEST IS PRODUCING COAL 65 PER CENT RATE

Thousands of Unsold Cars
Stand Upon the Railroad Sidings.

WILL LAST UNTIL FALL

Natural Gas, Oil and Other Fuels Are Being Used in Large Quantities by Industrial Plants as a Means of Helping to Conserve Coal Supplies.

CLEVELAND, May 6.—Coal is being mined in the vast producing sections of the broad Middle West at the rate of about 65 per cent of capacity, says the Daily Mineral Market in a review of the situation at the close of the fifth week of the strike. This seems to be the general consensus of opinion of the best authorities after careful investigation of conditions, number of workmen and cars of coal actually shipped.

The fuel markets in the Central West have developed this unusual feature, that considerable coal now stands in railroad cars unconsignee to any consumer. Something like 35,000 cars loaded with coal, which has not been sold, stand upon sidings.

The best authorities, both within and without the trade, agree in the belief the strike will be contested stubbornly and that it will be autumn before the struggle will end. A shortage of coal is expected, but it will not be so severe as to interfere with the operation of industry to the extent feared some time ago. Ground for this belief is found in the increasing scale of the tonnage of coal now coming forward from all quarters.

Ingenuity of industrial managers is being exercised in the use of other fuels than coal to tide over the emergency. Natural gas is being employed on a larger scale in the localities convenient to its use. Fuel oil is being used in larger quantities in works which heretofore have not employed it. Coal tar also is being burned extensively as fuel instead of going into roadwork, especially in open-hearth steel works which have been equipped to use it during this emergency.

Ingenuity use of all these fuels likely will be developed further in a practical way as the strike drags along. Steelmakers are determined to keep up their output of products despite the strike.

Brigadier General Coulter Resigns as National Guard Officer

Brigadier General Richard Coulter of Greensburg, commanding the 55th Infantry Brigade, Pennsylvania National Guard, to which the 110th Infantry in attached, has tendered his resignation. The action was not unexpected as General Coulter has been in the service 27 years and has long desired to retire.

General Coulter is a member of one of the best known families in Western Pennsylvania. His father served as colonel of the 11th Pennsylvania Reserves during the Civil War and was promoted to brigadier general for meritorious service at the battle of Gettysburg. His son entered the National Guard of Pennsylvania June 12, 1895, as a private in Company I, Tenth Regiment. He served as a second lieutenant during the Spanish-American War and was in command of the detachment which captured Aguinaldo, the leader of the Philippine in surrender.

Open reorganization of the Tenth Regiment after the war he was appointed to the staff of Colonel James A. Barnett. He later made major, lieutenant colonel and colonel in succession of the other churches of the city.

The military program will consist of selections by the Connellsville Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Carl Austine, and vocal solos by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McNulty of Pittsburgh, formerly of Connellsville, and Miss Olive Lynch of Uniontown.

Further Gains in Shipments of Coal, Coke Via P. R. R.

During the first five days of May shipments of coal and coke from the coke region over the Pennsylvania Railroad made further gains. For the corresponding days last week the shipments were: Coal, 1,767 cars; coke, 942 cars. This week they were: Coal, 1,791 cars; coke, 993 cars, or a gain of 24 and 51 cars respectively or a total gain of 75 cars.

Shipments over the Baltimore & Ohio out of the Smithfield district were 49 cars of coal and coke, as compared with 841 cars last week, a decrease of 79 cars.

A broken rail caused the derailment of six cars of coal at Outcrop this morning which blocked traffic. Passenger trains were delayed by way of the Smithfield & Maconetta branch to the Monongahela Railway.

Song Festival Attracts Throng To High School

Third Ward, was very good. Charles Ellis was "director" of this chorus and appeared in a full dress outfit.
The gypsy dance, by the Third and Fourth grades, Second Ward; the California polka by the fifth grades of the Crawford School and the gypsy dance by the fifth grades, South Side, were all well executed and their success was due to the efforts of the teachers of those grades. The rhythm drill was good, being accentuated with waving flags.

The major portion of the credit goes to Miss Helen Glant, supervisor of music in the elementary schools. She acted as "general chairman" of the big undertaking and with the assistance of the many teachers was able to make the event a complete success. Both Miss Glant and the teachers devoted considerable time to the festival and in the past weeks have been holding rehearsals following school hours. The festival last night was the second directed by Miss Glant.

The musical ends of the program were conducted entirely by her. This included numbers by the combined sixth grades, combined third grades, combined fourth and combined fifth grades.

The following teachers had charge of instruction in the dances: Gypsy song; dance, fourth grades Second Ward, Misses Martha Kauffman and Loretta Lewney; rhythm drill, third grades, Crawford School, Misses Beatrice Patterson and Florence Patterson; gypsy dance, fifth grades, Mrs. Ward, Misses Bessie Solson and Jean Knott; sunbonnet and overalls, fourth grade, Third Ward, Misses Kathleen Cable and Anna Horner; flower dance, fourth grades, South Side, Misses White Harrigan, Edna Knappenberg, Lillian Edmonds and Emma Harrigan; dance of the nations, fifth and sixth grades, Fourth Ward, Misses Kathleen Grossman, Susan Locke, Margaret Harrigan and Mrs. Edna J. Brendel; hurdy hurdy, third grades, South Side, Misses Audith Bixler and Agnes Nonen; May dance, fifth grade, South Side, Miss Frances Solson; children's polka, fifth grades, Crawford School, Miss Elizabeth Butler; French doll and tin soldier dance, third and fourth grades, Frances Camaron School, Misses Michael Stillwagon and Mary Porter. Miss Grace Workman, Miss Georgia Tipton and Gilbert Clark were pianists.

Buttermilk Starting Feed For Little Chicks

1. Conkey's will prevent your big losses of little chicks due to weakness and disease.
2. Conkey's will give your chickens that quick start in growth that is necessary to insure early broilers and layers.
3. Conkey's will help prevent White Diarrhea, as the lactic acid in the buttermilk helps to sweep away and neutralize the germs that cause it.
4. Conkey's is low in fibre and just right in protein, scientifically correct. Does not labor or overtax the digestive system.
5. Conkey's is the only Buttermilk Starting Feed made by the Lankay Original Process, in which the buttermilk is thoroughly incorporated with the other ingredients. We use real solid buttermilk only.

"Nothing Equals Conkey's"

U. R. Fisher, the well-known breeder of White Plymouth Rocks at Fishelton Farms, Hope, Ind., writes: "Conkey's Buttermilk Starting Feed is the best feed for young chicks. I have found nothing to equal it in the 40 years I have been in business."

Feed It for the First 8 Weeks
When the chicks are hatched, give them clean water with the chick taken off and the first feed at 24 hours. Then feed Conkey's Buttermilk Starting Feed dry, often and sparingly for the first few days, so they will clean it up, gradually increasing, and continue for eight weeks, with occasionally a little green food. If you do this, you should lose very few chicks on account of sickness.

Conkey's Buttermilk Starting Feed is sold at dealers carrying poultry feeds and supplies. If you can't supply you with Conkey's, write direct to us and we will see that you are supplied.

ANOTHER PROOF OF FAIRNESS OF REPUBLICAN PRIMARY POLICY.

President Harding had committed the same political indiscretion as his predecessor, by making an appeal to the Republican voters of Indiana to nominate New for the United States Senate in order to "support my policies," or had he been persistently active in support of New and against Beveridge, or had the latter been a man of mediocre ability and unknown and untitled in public life, there might be some justification for the Democratic organs to raise a cry about Beveridge's nomination being "a repudiation of Harding."

But President Harding did not presume to indicate, much less dictate, to the voters of Indiana whom they should select as their nominee for Senator. Neither did he send emissaries as was done during the Democratic administration to aid in conducting a campaign for or against either candidate. And, most important of all, he realized, as every well-informed man in public life realizes, that Ex-Senator Beveridge is one of the most capable and best qualified persons whom any state could select as its representative in the United States.

"Beveridge, in fact, is by far the strongest man the Indiana Republicans could have put up," says Mark Sullivan, than whom there is no better posted political observer and writer.

"Let no one assume," says Mr. Sullivan, "that Beveridge's nomination was any phenomenon or aberration, or that it was an 'insurgent' or 'progressive' victory in the sense in which these words were used 10 or a dozen years ago to denote radical innovations. If there were in the United States a party that believed in sound conservatism, the speeches in which Beveridge made his appeal to the voters of Indiana would make a worthy platform for such a party."

"Beveridge's speeches were more conservative than the present practice of the Republican party. His analysis of the present system of taxation and of its deleterious effects on national prosperity is one of the soundest and most thorough arguments that have been made on any public question in or out of Congress during the present year."

"At a time when a 'farm bloc' holds the balance of power in a Republican Senate and contributes about the only compact leadership the Senate has, Beveridge had the courage to say he opposes all 'blooms' and believes in old-fashioned constitutional government. Beveridge in the Senate will be closer to Harding's ideas than the bulk of the present Senate."

"Harding was fond of New, and on a personal basis undoubtedly regrets his defeat. But, as a party leader, Harding will get better support from Beveridge than he gets from the present Republican senators as a group."

"This step of Beveridge's toward return to public life is distinctly new and good news. He has a disciplined mind and the will to work. When he was in the Senate, before he was an outstanding figure, in more than one respect, he would be a better Senator. Of course, Beveridge will have a hard time to make before he sits in the Senate. The contest between him and the Democrats, Ralston, in November, will be a real fight. In that fight, Beveridge undoubtedly can get more Democratic votes, more independent votes, and more votes that would otherwise go Democratic than New possibly could have obtained."

The selection of Beveridge is another proof of the fairness and correctness of the Republican policy in primaries which gives to the voters the privilege of making their own choice of candidates. The composite judgment of the voters as expressed after thoughtful study of the relative merits of the candidates is much more to be trusted than the state chamber method of the Democratic leaders who "handpick" the nominees in advance of the primaries and leave the voters no alternative but to confirm the "handpicking," or vote for the Republican nominees, as many Democrats in Indiana and elsewhere will do in November.

Keep on Spraying Despite Freeze, Is Advice to Farmers

"Keep on spraying" is a motto well worth adopting by farmers and fruit growers of Fayette county, says county Agent C. L. Rumberger. Last week's freeze apparently wiped out all prospects of a crop of the stone fruits, he says, and as much as 80 per cent of all the apples, but that is no reason to discontinue spraying.

Three years of continued failure of the fruit crop is very discouraging, he goes on, yet, what farmer is not an optimist and hopes for a heavy yield next year? The spray applied when the petals have just fallen will not only help to allow what fruit that is left its proper development, but will keep down insects and disease that in another year will do serious damage if allowed to go unchecked.

Reports from the entire State and several eastern states indicate the fruit crop to be considerably reduced in contrast with first indications. This makes it doubly imperative that every orchard having any set of fruit should be properly cared for.

It is time to spray with the addition of nicotine sulphate or arsenate of lead, for leaf eaters, is recommended by the Fayette County Farm Bureau.

 I believe in a Budget System.
 I believe in a Good Roads System.
 I believe in Soldiers' Compensation.
 I will comply with the will and wish of the people in an effort to redeem our State, which has lost prestige in the Nation by reason of its low, base political methods, which has resulted in higher taxation. Our Treasury is almost bankrupt and there is a deficit of Thirty-five Million Dollars—No Audit is made—Extravagant Salaries are paid—We must get rid of a lot of Lazy Political Henchmen who cannot make a living outside of Harrisburg. The abuses now rampant in Harrisburg must be speedily corrected before all Liberties, Freedom of Speech and Personal Rights are lost. Before making an effort to reduce the wages of the Laborer, Mechanic and Farmer, why not reduce the High Salaries. Dempsey Will Meet Romaine In Next Boxing Club Show To Be Presented on May 15

Both Fighters Have Fine Records; Dempsey Considered Favorite.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS

By James M. Driscoll, Sporting Editor.

The Connelville Athletic Club will present its next show at Slavish Hall, West Side, on Monday, May 15. Contracts have been signed by Mike Dempsey, better known to the boxing fraternity as Young Jack Dempsey, of Toledo, and Battling Romaine, of Youngstown, O., for a 10-round scrap. These who have been following the career of Romaine feel that Young Dempsey may meet a reverse in Connelville. The fighters are considered to be well matched.

Dempsey has fought his last 10 battles at Rochester, N. Y., which alone speaks for his popularity; otherwise he would not have continued in that city. His last battle was with Marty Cross.

The semi-final also brings two other new faces to the ring here. Young Mulligan of North Side, Pittsburgh, will meet Eddie Borland of McKeesport. Both Turner of Uniontown and a youth from Trotter, yet unknown in the world of tipped rings, will open the show. The unnamed is said to be a real discovery. The show May 15 will be his first public appearance.

The City League baseball season opens this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Slavish Hall. The game is scheduled between the Fayette Bakers and the Baltimore and Ohio outfit. A parade will precede the game with players of all teams participating.

The Pirates won from the Cubs yesterday in a damp contest, 3-1. The Pirates scored a tally in the third and then put two more across in the sixth. Cooper meantime keeping the Chicago batters at bay and allowing no runs until the ninth frame when the lone one came across.

Binger Bayne, a native son of Pittsburgh, pitching for the St. Louis Americans, was robbed of a no-hit game in the ninth inning yesterday when Detroit landed two safeties.

The Connelville Independents will open just one week from today.

The Church League will soon be under way and then there will be a ball game in this city or its environs practically every night.

Inequalities of Clothes

By Wright-Metzler Co.

"All is not gold that glitters," neither are all suits of clothes that look smart when you first wear them. All wool, for the other kind, they may be all wool, but still not hold their press or shape, because much shoddy wool has been mixed in with the virgin wool. In other words, wool that has already served in one suit and been discarded is cleaned, reworked and mixed with the virgin or new wool; this makes the cost less, but the unreliable clothes can sell for the same price as the fine stuff at the price it is in. It is next to impossible for an inexperienced person to distinguish the difference, but after they are worn awhile the customer will realize he didn't get what he thought he was getting—what he exchanged his hard-earned cash for.

The fair cloth used down the front of a suit is many times of a cheaper grade, the lining may be made of a shiny silk, but something that looks good. These, too, suits may be so hastily turned out that care is not taken in the workmanship, and cotton or mercerized threads very often is used in the building up a substitute for silk.

Newsday is not just a few dollars that are invested in a suit of clothes and it is well worth one's while, when making a new suit to first select an honest, reliable clothier.

Know a man by his Clothier.

BIG SALARIES FOR SOCCERS

Scottish Football Eleven Pays $25,000 to the Transfer of Sidney G. Paddock.

The transfer of soccer football in Great Britain was the Scottish Football eleven paying $25,000 to West Ham United for the transfer of Sidney G. The transactions are not the kind of thing that football enthusiasts what "Bosch" but his new salary is to base-ball players and team.

SWIMMING RECORD LOWERED

Swimmer Makes 500 Meters in 8:15 2-8, Much Faster Than Time Made by Ross.

The world's swimming record of 500 meters 55 4-8 seconds for 500 meters, held by Norman Ross, of St. Louis, was lowered by J. G. Hatfield, the holder of several British championships, who covered the distance in 5 minutes, 15 2-8 seconds. Hatfield was timed by officials of the Amateur Swimming Association.

John Robinson Circus Has Stood the "Test of Time"

John Robinson's circus, bigger, better and more entertaining than ever, will appear in Connelville on Friday, May 12, giving two performances, full and complete and also a tree street parade, of more than a mile in length.

The John Robinson circus is the only one in the world that has stood the test of time, being first organized in 1824, N. Y., in 1824 and it is now making its 98th annual tour of the North American continent. The fourth generation of the famous Robinson family is now managing the oldest, white top organization in the universe.

This show is one of the wonders of the age as regards system. "A place for everything and everything in its place" is an adage as old as the race but despite its age, it is just as sweeping and effective today as it was on the date of its origin. It is an adage that John Robinson puts into effect around his huge amusement enterprise.

In the John Robinson show there is a place for everything and when the big show packs for a move, everything must be in its place, and before the move is started. When night falls and the big crew begins to drift toward the railroad cars, every man has a certain duty outlined for him and he does nothing else than that which he is employed to do. Every wagon, every pole and every stake—regardless of size—has a resting place, and as though it were a gigantic puzzle, the general result does not work out properly unless each unit has been correctly cared for. Unless the order of "a place for everything and everything in its place" were strictly adhered to there would be general pandemonium with its resultant risks and loss of time and money. Some big successes have been built on lessons involved in time honored maxims.

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

"TWO MINUTES TO GO," a First National picture with Charles Ray in the leading role, is the feature picture today. In "Two Minutes to Go" there is an exciting football game and Charles Ray, as the hero of that game, is a fine smasher of the first class. It is his playing that decides the crucial game of the year in favor of his college team. Real college football players appear in the two opposing teams, and a genuine game is played. The final result on the screen is said to be both realistic and thrilling. In his college days Ray was a football player of no mean ability and his early experience has served him well, judging from his splendid exhibition in "Two Minutes to Go."

Monday and Tuesday Jewel Carmen will be seen in "Nobody."

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE MAN FROM DOWNING STREET," the feature picture today, presents Earle Williams in the stellar role. "The Man From Downing Street" is a story of India. Earle Williams as a secret service agent, goes to India disguised as a rajah to solve the mystery of a leak in the British secret service code. Here he meets with an attractive young girl, but owing to the difference of the East and West, the girl feels she can never marry him.

When the mystery is solved and he appears as an Englishman the love affair culminates in a happy marriage. Monday and Tuesday Irene Castle will be seen in "French Heels."

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE BRONZE BELL," a Paramount picture, presenting an all-star cast, is being shown today as the leading attraction. The scenes of this admirable picture are drawn from the greater part in British East India and tell of a rebellion in which the daughter of a British officer and a young American are the central figures. The situations are dramatic and thrilling and the investigation remarkably massive and effective, as is usual with Thomas H. Ince's production. Courtenay Foote has a dual role of great power while Doris May, a charming actress, plays opposite him. The cast is one of exceptional strength artistically, and the picture as a whole is well worth seeing.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Elsie Ferguson, Wallace Reid, Elliott Dexter and other well known stars will be seen in "Forever After."

The Indianapolis team is so well supplied with outfield material that Harry Purcell, champion hitter of the Central League, will be sent back.

Bob McManemy, St. Paul catcher, is reported as having fopped Mike Kelley's team and gone to join Leo Driesen up in the outlaw Minnesota Iron Range league.

The Big Muskeg

by VICTOR ROUSSEAU

Illustrations by R.H. Livingstone

COPYRIGHT BY STEWART KIDD COMPANY

"Jim," said Wilton, "I'm giving up my life to the Muskeg, because it was Joe's work and I'm going to hand down his murder, if it was murder."

"Aye, boy, and go out about it," counseled Betty. "It was crafty work, but it'll come out. Don't doubt it. And you'll find them two snakes, Bowyer and Phayre, under the brush-wood. And maybe Clark, too," he added.

It was the middle of February before Wilton was allowed to leave the house. Nearly two months had been lost, and during that time Bowyer and Phayre, whatever their plans might be, had had a good leeway to develop them.

"Elly," said Wilton, "you know everything is in your hands now. You control the line. And I know that you'll stand by the line to the last, because it was Joe's big dream."

"Will you count on me to the end," said Elly solemnly. "I've been thinking a great deal about Big Muskeg, and I feel my own responsibility. I want to know that you are counting on me, and I'm going to the end."

Wilton was astounded. "Live at Big Muskeg?" he cried.

"Until the work is finished. Don't refuse me, Will." She clasped her hands together in her childish, pleading way. "Joe had always found himself in the Muskeg. I want to know that you are counting on me, and I'm going to the end."

"But you can't go there to live. The loneliness would be awful. And there isn't a house anywhere. And besides—"

He did not dare suggest the thought that came to him, that people would gossip about her. That, he felt, rested with her.

"It won't be lonely with— with the work, Will," she answered. "And I've already made my plans. I'm having a bungalow built there. And there will be Molly. Don't you want me to come, Will?"

Kitty's plans were feasible. Wilton smiled, and he was glad for one thing: her presence at the Muskeg would mean much to Molly. During the next few days he was in constant consultation with the directors as representing Elly, who had given him her power of attorney to act for her. He went carefully over the books. He was quite satisfied with their showing. If Big Muskeg could be crossed, the company could remain solvent without increasing its capital.

He devoted his attention to the personnel, taking on new men and weeding out a thing Joe had hated doing, until he was satisfied that Bowyer had no representatives on the staff.

Wilton and Betty had been named executors of Joe's will. Wilton had already gone through Joe's papers; but this task was much less satisfactory for Joe, who was a capital director, seemed to have no personal system at all. Everything was in confusion—papers were missing, records mixed up together. He had left Kitty three thousand shares in the Muskeg, and a comfortable little capital of about forty thousand dollars, together with the house in Clayton and some property in Winnipeg.

The Muskeg shares, amounting to two million dollars at their par value, represented the bulk of his fortune, and were in a safety-deposit box in the bank's vault. The receipt, however, could not be found.

This was not a much importance, but Wilton went with Kitty to look in Joe's box. Clark, the manager, took them below, opened the vault, and put in the master-key. Wilton completed the opening. To his astonishment there were only fifteen hundred shares.

"Five hundred shares are missing," he said to the manager.

Clark looked at him in some surprise. "I'm not forgetting that Mr. Bowyer kept five hundred shares with us as security for the loan," he said.

Wilton looked at Elly. "Did you know that Joe borrowed on the security of those shares?" he asked.

Kitty shook her head. Joe had not told her many of the details of his business. And the papers had shown no record of the transaction.

"Mr. Phayre has just come in," said the manager.

They went up to the president's office. Phayre asked them to sit down, and listened to Wilton's statement.

"Mr. Clark, will you get Mr. Bowyer's blank transfer of the shares?" he asked.

The paper was brought. The signature appeared perfectly genuine. Joe Bowyer had made out a transfer in blank of five hundred shares, in return for a loan of three hundred and fifty thousand dollars, due the 15th of December.

Key, Jim, it'll be easy to raise enough money to pay off the loan," said Wilton.

He arranged with Kitty to have all Joe's papers placed in the safe which held the engineering records and sent up in it to Big Muskeg. Only Kitty and he knew the combination.

Two days later Wilton now completely recovered, started for the bush.

The sub-contractor had practically completed the camp at Big Muskeg, and there was quite a gang of men there, principally engaged in hauling the cut timber. Wilton had taken Anderson from the cache and made him the foreman. The Swede was one of the best foremen in the lumber employ, but had fallen from his estate owing to repeated lapses into drunkenness.

Wilton planned to reach Big Muskeg on Saturday night, in order to meet his men on the Sunday when they would all be in camp. He took a new engineer with him, a young fellow named Digby, who had come with excellent recommendations from an English institute. He was particularly anxious to reach his destination, for he had had no letter from Molly since his recovery.

To his surprise, Wilton found the camp absolutely empty though there were plenty of signs of an abundant population. But shores from one of the benches in the dining room betrayed the presence of a solitary occupant. A man was lying full length behind the table, his hat tilted over his face.

Wilton shook him to his feet, and disclosed Anderson dead drunk.

The foreman, rudely awakened, stood reeling and blinking at him. "What have you got to say?" demanded Wilton, furious at this lapse.

"What have you got to say?" demanded Wilton.

"What have you got to say?" demanded Wilton.

"What have you got to say?" demanded Wilton.

"What have you got to say?" demanded Wilton.

What Public Can do to Improve Postal Service

Postmaster J. E. Collins suggests a few things that the public can do to improve the service.

1. Pack, wrap, and tie parcels carefully and securely.

2. Put return address on the upper left hand corner of the address side of the parcel.

3. Have it weighed at the parcel post window and state the contents to the clerk. If the contents are fragile or perishable, it should be indicated accordingly on the parcel. Do not use boxes or other containers unless they are marked "fragile" or "perishable" separately from other mail matter.

4. If parcels contain valuable matter, have it insured.

5. If a letter contains valuable inclosures, have it registered.

6. Do not place loose coins in envelopes. All ordinary envelopes must pass through the cancelling machine, and in doing so the coins are sometimes forced out. Coins found loose on cancelling machines are forwarded to the Dead Letter Office.

7. Look over letters carefully before mailing. See that they are sealed, stamped, properly addressed and bear return address.

8. The stamp should always be in the upper right hand corner of letter.

9. Housewives should provide themselves with a supply of stamps. Business men nearly always have them on hand.

10. If without a mail receptacle erected at residence erect one this week. Help carrier to complete his work quickly.

11. If address is changed, temporarily or otherwise, notify the postoffice or tell carrier of the new address.

12. Business men forming an association or organizing a new company should notify the postmaster and advise him to deliver the mail to the proper individual or office to whom the mail should be delivered.

13. When mailing monthly statements arrange them neatly and with the stamps all facing in one direction, and tie a string around them before mailing. This may help them to get in the mail boxes earlier.

14. Mail early. Mail often. Mail properly.

Among the suggestions that have been received was one from a business man. This man suggested that the postmaster provide merchants and business men with a copy of the schedule showing closing time or mails at the office. The suggestion was considered as being an excellent one. Postmaster Collins has prepared a schedule that should prove valuable to every business man in the city. A copy of the schedule may be had on application at the postmaster's office. Cut this out and hang it up for reference.

Potatoes Will Pay For Fertilizer by Increase in Crop

There is no field crop grown in Pennsylvania which responds with greater profits to liberal applications of commercial fertilizers than do potatoes. In fact, liberal applications of commercial fertilizers, manure, or both, are as essential as good culture, good disease-free seed, or spraying. The potato is a weak feeder and for the best results a ready available plant food must be supplied in abundance. For that reason potatoes should never be planted in poor soil.

They come nearer reaching perfection in both quality and in yield on well drained fertile sandy or loam soils, having a good clover sod with a coat of manure plowed down in later fall or early spring. Under these conditions 500 to 600 pounds of acid phosphate per acre should be applied, says County Agent C. L. Rumberger. Where potatoes follow a well manured timothy sod, or well manured corn ground, 300 to 1,200 pounds per acre of 3-12 mixture should be applied. If a clover sod, not manured is turned down, then it becomes necessary to use potash, and 800 to 1,200 pounds of a 3-12-1 mixture should be used. If the soil is not naturally fertile, the percentage of ammonia may be increased up to four per cent. Potatoes following timothy and should receive at least 1,000 to 1,500 pounds of a 4-10-4 or 6 mixture.

When planting by hand the best plan is to broadcast half of application either before or after planting and the other half applied in the row. Experiments have not shown any advantage in making light applications at frequent intervals during the growing season.
